

Matt Buck's (A)Part at Last Rites Gallery

06/28/13 / Author: Samantha Baker

Freelance illustrator and fine artist Matt Buck will be premiering five paintings and three drawings at Last Rites Gallery in New York City this Saturday June 29th. On display until August 10th, this will be Buck's first solo exhibition. Aptly titled (A)Part, Buck's show will focus on portraits that have been cut off at the neck. Dressed in Reformation era costume, Buck's work reminds us of a more regal time. However, the fact that these portraits are severed at the neck causes us to question what makes us who we are. To find out more about Matt Buck's (A)Part or Last Rites Gallery, click here.